

Sinclair Broadcast Group's recent actions have illustrated the dangers to localism caused by media consolidation. Their actions violate the principal of fair and unbiased reporting.

Sinclair uses the public airwaves free of charge, and is obligated by law to serve the public interest. But when large companies control the airwaves, we get more of what's good for the bottom line and less of what we need for our democracy. Instead of something produced at "News Central" far away, it's more important that we see real people from our own communities and more substantive news about issues that matter.

It is unjust for Sinclair to use its monopoly of news outlet to broadcast one-sided derogatory programming.

Sinclair's actions show why we need to strengthen media ownership rules, not weaken them. They show why the license renewal process needs to involve more than a returned postcard. Thank you.
